TALLINN STORIES OF THE SEASHORE

In 2011 Tallinn is the European Capital of Culture. It is a seaside city, but it is still not fully open to the sea. The capital of culture wants to look to the future and solve this paradox: improve the urban environment and bring the city and the sea together once more. We want Tallinn to tell its seaside stories with pride, as part of the capital of culture programme, and also after 2011. The European Capital of Culture programme consists of 251 projects and offers around 7000 events throughout the year. Check out more from www.tallinn2011.ee.
