Amundsen & Nobile

After triumphing in the deadly race for the South Pole, explorer superstar Roald Amundsen suffers from post-expedition blues. The only remedy is a new Polar conquest. Tired of skiing, Amundsen gets a remarkable idea: to fly to the North Pole in an airship. Italian airship engineer Umberto Nobile dreams of glory and bold adventure, despite being an indoorsy type. When Amundsen commissions a zeppelin, Nobile grasps the opportunity for fame. He brings along his beloved lapdog Titina, despite her obvious unsuitability for wilderness bravery. A polar epic about the mysterious death of Roald Amundsen, the utter disgrace of Umberto Nobile, and about Titina: the first fox terrier on the North Pole.
